Working hours and overtime

The ILO Hours of Work (Industry) Convention, 1919 (No. 1) introduced a maximum standard working time of 48 hours per week and eight hours per day as an international norm. In several exceptional cases, working time is allowed to exceed these limits, as long as daily working time remains not higher than ten hours, and weekly working time not higher than 56 hours.

- Regular working hours (per week, month and year).
- Overtime working hours (per week, month and year).
- Rest breaks and days off.

Overtime refers to all hours worked in excess of the normal hours, unless they are taken into account in fixing numeration in accordance with custom [Reduction of Hours and Work Recommendation, 1962 (No. 116)].
